Something must be going on when the male dominated world of Houston's biggest police union seeks outside counsel from a female solo practitioner.

Nicole DeBorde, a veteran of the Harris County District Attorney's Office who once prosecuted bad cops in one of her many roles as a former prosecutor, now counts the Houston Police Officer's Union among her clients. The reason: results. With over 13 years experience on both sides of the fence, DeBorde's familiarity with the inner workings of law enforcement has translated into an ability to anticipate her government adversaries in all types of criminal cases. Whether her client stands charged with DWI, white collar crime or murder, her sterling reputation and seasoned judgment help her to successfully navigate the complexities of criminal litigation.

Well respected by judges, peers and adversaries, DeBorde can often be seen in her role as legal analyst on major national television networks including the Fox News Channel, CNN and MSNBC. She is a board member of the Harris County Criminal Lawyers Association, a committee member for the Houston Bar Association's Criminal Law and Procedure Section, 2006 recipient of the President's Award from HCCLA, 2005 and 2006 Top Lawyer as recognized by H Texas Magazine; 2005 Professional on the Fast Track - H Texas Magazine; and member of the American Inns of Court. Her firm has the highest rating, AV, given by the legal directory of Martindale Hubbell.

"Don't just expect victory. Plan and fight for it every time."
